> Madison, July 28.—Following a stirring appeal by Senator Timothy Burks for better national defense, the senate today rejected a proposal by Senator Ackley of Chippewa Falls to cut the appropriation recommended for the Wisconsin National Guard and passed the bill as amended by the finance committee increasing the annual appropriation from $518,000 to $200,000. The legislative reference library, endorsed by President Taft and other high authorities, was saved today when the Perry bill cutting its appropriation from $21,800 to $2,500 annually and transferring it to the state law library was killed by a two to one vote.

The senate confirmed the appointment of George D. Harris, Waukesha; Frunk B. Moody and James Nevin, Madison, and W. E. Barber, La. Crosse, as members of the new conservation commission without opposition. The assembly advanced the Burke bill amending the county board of education law by creating a county committee on education; reduced the appropriation for Stout Institute by ten tohusand dollars annually; reduced that for the state law library $1,750 for the biennium; passed a bill compensating stockmen whose cattle disease at the national dairy show, and concurred in the assassing ation of the political opponents of General Guillaume, and that it will be succeeded by a great outburst of fury when reaction sets in.

The body of General Oscar today remains before the consulate of the Dominican Republic, where it had fallenged accessful defense of the prosidential palace, but a mob stoned the building and dragged him to the streets and executed him by shooting.

New York, July 28.—The strike at the Bayonne, N. J., plant of the Standard Oil company and the Tidewater Oil company ended when virtually every man who walked out ten days ago, returned to work. The plants of the Vacuum Oil and General Chemical companies, which were closed during the rioting in which three strikers were killed, also resumed operations today.

Instead of the large armed forces which have been used by Sheriff Kinkead during the strike, only a few police were in evidence about the gates of the oil plants today. The men appeared glad to return to work, but there was no excitement.

Jeremiah J. Balley, who lead the strike until arrested last Saturday, watched the men return to work from the sheriff's automobile. He will be released today. The sheriff also said he would release Frank Cannonbaum, the I. W. W. leader, arrested last week.

The new law, that has been passed by the legislature lately, prohibiting anyone, not a railroad employe from trespassing on the railroad's right-otway, under penalty of heavy fine and imprisonment, has greatly relieved the engineers, who were working hard in behalf of the measure. Little does the public realize the responsibility of the pilots of the trains, and how hard it is to be ever watching for some unfortunate who wonders onto the tracks. Although this will not relieve their watchfulness to any extent, it is hoped by the engineers, that the public will take it as a warning to remain off the right-of-way. The bill is also welcomed by the railroad companies, as it lifts much responsibility for the death of people, who insist upon getting on to the tracks and of those who take advantage of the "bumpers" and "blind baggages." There are laws like this in almost all of the Buropean countries and have proved to be a very helpful idea in preserving life.

CLOSE RACE COINS MONEY IN LEAGUES

In Spite of Predictions For Disaster In Baseball, Two Major Leagues Making Money, [special to the Gazerin]

(Ry George R. Holmes.)

M. New York, July 28.—Just when the Viscaeres have the old game of baseagil our on its feet, the bell saves it. Last year, with the advent of the Yeals, the war and kindred other things calculated to make the magnetes feel like taking poison, the deposiers had the pastime down for the count of nine. Then came that history-making spurt of the Braves and the fans in eight National league cities flocked to the park to see the Muracle Man and his miracles.

Incidentally, the National League worn't nearly so hard hit in the pocker book last season as was noised about, if all present reports are true.

cd about, if all present reports are true.

This year, with the schedule more than half completed, two close races are again serving as the hell that prevents the sleep wallop. There have been no closer races in either league than those now being seen.
For instance, the Dodgers: When the Dodgers—they are being called Superbase mostly now—returned to their own playing plot along about the first of July, trailing the league, it of Lordon Holiday. Ebbets was about to take the count. No crowds in Flatbush, no enthugiasm, nothing lant empty seats in a mighty swell ball park.

Alex, came the Giants; they were wallened. Then the Braves; they were licked even worse. And then the Politisburgh 44 merican be league, blew in. When they left, they left the whole sories behind them. The Reds broke the streak by winning one game, but the Superbas were within two stretches and a grab at first place. The attendance was so great it made up for the deficis carlier in the season. If the Encoklyns continue to win half their sames, it's a safe bet that Ebbets and the McKeevrs will make money on the season.

MAKE MANY CHANGES IN MAJOR LEAGUES; OLD STARS MISSING

of Old—Former Stars Are First to Slip to Baseball Graveyard.

Just a few years more and the stars of yesterday in present-day baseball will be outcasts from the major leagues, for one by one the headline players are passing from the ranks to the graveyard of the diamond game. Great changes have been made in the teams during the last two seasons and one by one the veterans are replaced by youngsters.

Of the Chicago Cub team, one time the wizards of the game, one and only one remains who was with the nine that swept through three championships, Frank Schulte is the "last Machican" of the original team. Zimmerman and Archer remain, but they were not regulars on "Chance's unbeatables." Strunk, Thomas and Lapp are the only ones still on the Athletics' pay roll who helped win the 1910 sories for the Athletics, Just five men of the twenty old players who battled under the Detroit Tiger standard ten years ago remain under Jennings. They are Cobb. Crawford, Bush, Stanage and Moriarity. Only three of the Pirate team who beat the Tigers are still playing—Wagner, Adams and Gibson.

Great changes have come in the Boston Red Sox and row a winning bunch is prancing around the top of the American league; When the Red Sox trounced the Giants in that famous eight game series few figured that time of a few years would change the line-up. Jake Stahl, who managed the team and who will play in Janesville in August, lost his job, and seven players of the championship team lost their jobs or went to the Feds. A number of the Giants remain and that is one reason why the McGraw tribe is occupying second division. Failure to develop new blood has cost the Giants heavily, and it is expected that several of the verenain and that is one reason. Why the McGraw tribe is occupying second division. ball. Both played with the Pirates. One is Wagner; the other is Tommy Leach.
Only six of the more than forty who were eligible for duty in the 1905 (Hants-Athletics world series are still in big league baseball. Mathowson is still with the Giants; Roger Bresnahan is managing the Cubs and doing the bulk of the catching; Leon Ames is pitching for the Cincinnati Reds. Those three men wore Giant uniforms in 1905.
Eddie Plank, Jack Coombs and Chief Bender are the only members of the 1905 Athletics who are now in the big leagues. Plank and Bender are with the Feds and Coombs is hurling for the Dodgers.
Ed Walsh and Nick Altrock are the only members of the world chambion 1906 White Sox team who are still in the big leagues. "Jiggs" Donahue, Frank Isbell, "Whitey" Rohe, Shortstops Davis and Tannehill, Outfielders Jones, Hahn and Dougherty, Catcher Sullivan and Pitchers Owen and White—all of them have passed beyond major league view as players. Jones has come back—but as manager of the St. Louis Feds—not as a player.

Florence has had some previous as sociation with the Italian court, for n 1864 it was made the temporary capital of Italy, and in the following year the king and court removed there. In the same year the first assembly of the Italian parliament took place there. Not until 1871 did the government remove to Rome as the capital of Italy.

Cone day, with Jim Scott pitching, the White Sox and Leibold ship, however. Except during the progress of a ball game, they still two out, the Naps had the bases full. Nemo Leibold was sent up to bat in the pinca by Manager Birmingham. Schalk decided to play a little joke to missing his bat and waited for Scott to pitch. The Nap player turned half around.
"No, Ray: she hasn't written in weeks. Wonder whalt's the matter?"
Scott had shot a ball through and the umpire called, "Strike one:"
"That's funny," replied Schalk, "I thought she wrote at least once a week."

"Guess she's too busy to write," said Leibold, glancing around again. Another ball shot across.
"Strike two!" yelled the umpire.
The two conchers on the lines frantically tried to give Leibold the signal. They couldn't understand wiphes tood there as if in a trance.
"Well, I heard from Helen," exclaimed Schalk. "She's certainly a dandy girl."
"Gee, that's great." answered Leibold, keeping his bat on his shoulder.
"She's certainly a dandy girl."
"You bet she is." grinned Schalk as the third strike whizzed across.
"Batter out!" snamped the umpire.

PAZETTE PRINTING CO.

THE TRUTH AT LAST,

During the entire session of the legislature the press agents of the University-Normal school lobby have been most industrious in spreading brondcast statements which entirely misrepresented the attitude of Gover-nor Philipp and his advisors in their their voices so sweet? endeavor to create a contral board of education and take the various state institutions of learning out of the hands of clever politicians and spend the taxpayers' money for what it was intended and not for furthering political ambitions.

Not only has the press of the state been deluged with these misrepresentations, but publications outside the state have also lent a willing ear and published columns of statements that were entirely false, but bore the semblance of truth. Not content with this method of procedure the educational interests have kept an expensive lobby at Madison all winter, paid for by the taxpayers directly in Despite the wet spring and summer expense accounts, and have combined with the liquor element to gain their lesired ends.

One of the subjects that received the broadside attacks was the University Survey and it is interesting to note what L. P. Benezet, superintendent of schools at La Crosse, has to say of this method of blinding the eyes of the public to the faults of the university. Mr. Benezet was one of the members of the survey board and has even gone further than to make a public statement, but has also written eastern publications contro-verting partisan statements concerning the survey. He is a Dartmouth graduate and knows the requirements of a university. He says:

"I may say that practically all of us particular demonstration of joy on the were unknown to Dr. Allen at the be. part of the average householder. ginning of the investigation, that we went down to Madison strongly preju-diced in favor of the university, that we were amazed and shocked at the poor teaching and lack of supervision which we say, especially in the de-partment for the training of teachers, which, in my humble opinion, should be the one where there should be the strongest instructors and the closest supervision. I may say, also, that no attempt was made to influence us to report anything but what we ourselves saw or to twist the facts to fit. any preconceived theory. I have talked with many of my co-workers in the investigation and have found them unanimous in their astonishment at the lax methods and general inefficiency which they encountered.

"A similar survey was recently made of the Wisconsin normal schools. Its findings were even more scathing in their criticism of what is going on in these institutions. The normal school authorities, however, have welcomed these criticisms and are doing their best to remady the are doing their best to remedy the evils which have been pointed out. For some reason which I cannot explain, the university authorities have not been willing to do the same with their survey, but instead seem to be conducting an organized campaign of vilification and abuse, all aimed at Dr. Allen. Just what is the animus behind this attack, I cannot state, but many school men of the state who, like myself, have hitherto been stanch friends of the university, are disgusted at the petty and elegated. are disgusted at the petty and almost dishonest spirit that has pervaded the attempt to refute the findings of the survey."

The Evening Wisconsin, is speaking iog this statement, adds:

"This straightforward statement should be read by the programment."

The Janesville Gazette
They have neglected the affairs of their departments to influence legislation. They have appeared before committees, they have buotton-holed legislators and as days went by became bolder and even appeared before the senate committee as a whole and some of them went on record as stating that they did not think that one of their number—that is, present state employes—could be spared from the list of workers and the business of the state be as well conducted. They were seeking to save their own petty little jobs at the expense of the taxpayers of the state. They opposed all efforts of Philipp and his friends to reduce taxes by reducing state ex-penses, and aided by other interests they were in a part successful. How-ever, it is not improbable that some of these same ardent lobbyists for the "tax-eaters" may find that the "sword of Damocles" will fall and they will retire for the good of the state as a whole, from active participation in public affairs.

The growls of the "Tax Savers" and the "Woof Woof" of the "Tax Eaters" can be heard in all parts of the state. When the tax payers find out what this is all about they will act. It takes a long time to wake some people up

Speaker Whittet intends, if posside, to keep down the state expenses by amending appropriation measures that come before the assembly so that it will not be necessary to make a special five million dollar assess ment to meet expenses next year.

Fair talk can be heard on every side. The Janesville fair is coming in for its share of discussion and it looks now as though it was going to be one of the banner exhibitions of the state.

The Evening Wisconsin, is speaking iog this statement, adds:

"This straightforward statement should be read by taxpayers and all who are interested in education as well as by members of the legislature. The university needs regulation. It has been demoralized by circumstances which practically have permitted its lobby to dictate the politics of the state."

THE SWORD OF DAMOCLES.
Pernicious lobbying on the part of certain state employes is liable to cause their sudden separation from their positions as servants of the state in the near future if dispatches from Madison to this effect can be believed. On his taking up the reins of government Mr. Philipp announced that he did not seek to replace all the state employes within his power to do so, at once. He would not listen to the "honeyed" words of those seeking political preferment for "party" reasons, but would bide his time and to the "honeyed" words of those seeking political preferment for "party" reasons, but would bide his time and permit matters to stand as they were for the present. For a time the period of suspense on the part of office-holders was intense, then it wore off. Then came the reactionary period and during the rush of regislation there has been no lobby so obsequious to the "tax-eaters" as the capitol lobby.

The home team had a two-run lead at the end of the eighth inning, but when the visitors went to bat in the ninth a base on balls and two flagrant errors by infielders filled the bases with no one out.

Who will contribute ten dollars to provide for a two week outing for two "fresh air klddies" from Chicago? The philanthropic department of the Summer Club of Household Economics, which is planning to entertain 31 youngsters from the Chicago tenement districts, is anxious to know. Arrangements have been made for 29 children but there is a delegation of 31 which the Chicago Commons wishes to send to Janesvile, and 20 the club is anxious to raise enough money to take care of the additional number. A suitable home has already been offered for the two extra children, but a small charge for board, $5 each for the two weeks, must be paid.

Mrs. C. H. Rumrill, at the head of the club's philanthropic work, stated today that contributions for clothing also are needed. It is the custom of the club to replenish the wardrobes of the summer visitors and donations for this work will be most cordially received.

The crowd of youngsters, eager for a happy time in the country where there are oceans of green fields, fresh air and wonders of woods and pasture lots, will arrive here a week from today, August 4th. Miss Elleanor King plans to go to Chicago to accompany the visitors to Janesville.

PARCEL POST WILL OFFER EXHIBIT AT JANESVILLE FAIR

Public to Be Taught How to Address and Prepare Packages to Send Through the Malls.

and Prepare Packages to Send
Through the Malls.

A school of instruction on how to address and prepare packages to be sent by parcel post will be a feature at the Janesville tair, from August 10th to 14th inclusive. Postmaster J. J. Cunningham and Secretary Nowlan of the Fair board, were at the grounds yesterday selecting a spot to hold this school or exhibit, finally deciding on using space under the new grandstand. It is also the plan to establish a postoffice at the grounds for the benefit of those desirous of writing letters on the grounds.

This parcel post exhibit promises to be one of the most interesting attractions at the fair. In addition to instructing people how to wrap up bundles and address them, there will be placed on exhibition, various crates, boxes and packages of different sizes for the inspection of the public. The rates will be shown on charts so that visitors might become more acquainted with the prices for sending articles via the new government system. The exhibit will be in charge of L. D. Gage of the local postoffice force.

The postoffice department at Washington is inaugurating this plan for the purpose of instructing the public in systematic use of the parcel post, and expect to have similar exhibits at a number of country. The plan is generally meeting with the enthusiastic approval of fair managements. The directors of the Janesville fair are highly pleased with the idea and appreciate the convenience of receiving mail on the grounds twice a day.

WRANGLE ON PAVING CONTRACT IN BOARD OF CITY OFFICIALS

MILTON AVE. JOB OF BRICK WILL GO TO GUND-GRAHAM COMPANY.

GIVE BRICK CONTRACT

Split on Bids for Asphalt Macadam Paving on Wisconsin and South Bluff Street on Brand of Asphait to Be Used,

Business connected with the letting of the contract for the paving work by the board of public works have not been running smoothly and after two sessions in which a controversy was raised between the members, the board adjourned this morning in the midst of an argument that promised to become interesting. Thesday afternoon the board opened six bids for the two paving jobs and a chart of the prices was considered. The contract for the paving of Milton avenue from St. Mary's avenue, north to the city limits will undoubtedly be confirmed by the city council this afternoon as the Gund Graham company's bid of $12,489.60 was low for this job. This contract Graham company's bid of $12,489.60 was low for this job. This contract was practically awarded by the board of public works this morning as the other bids are much higher. The "sticker" came on the bids for the asphalt macadam work on Wisconsin and South Bluff streets. On this the board was split and the Gund-Graham company which has a twin bid for

Bids Received.

The six sealed bids opened yesterday showed various bids on the different work with at least two contractors "in the running" for the contractors "in the running" for the contract. There were more contractors present than there were bids received and the reason given for this is that several did not wish to submit prices on learning of the low prices submitted. The bids were as follows:

Thomas E. Wooley of La Crosse, Milton avenue, brick; excavation, 38c per square yard; paving of Purington brick, $1.37; curb and gutter work. $4c; brick protection curb, 25c, and cement covered gutter, 20c. On the asphalt macadam jobs for South Bluff and Wisconsin streets, excavation, 38c; paving, $1.18, and re-surfacing, 80c. The total bid was $8,317.00 on the asphalt work.

P. W. Ryan and Son of Janesville: Milton avenue, brick; excavation, 48c; pavement of Purington brick, $1.98 and of Springfield brick, $1.92; curb and gutter, 30c. The total bid under 'ne condition of receiving both contracts was $13,605.99 for the Milton avenue work.

Ryan's bid for the asphalt work was high, the estimates being, excavation, 49c; pavement for scarce asphalt, $1.12; re-surfacing, 75c. The pavement bid with Bermuda asphalt was $1.17 and Aztec asphalt, $1.05. The bid for the two asphalt jobs was $8.081.87.

high hid; 10c for protection curb, and $1.00 for covered guiters, a total hid of $12,489.60 for the brick pavement. For the asphalt contract the Freeport company, who have done considerable work in this city, the bid was 50c for excuvation, 91c for Aziec asphalt pavement, 60c for re-surfacing, a total bid of $6.714. The bid on the pavement for Scarco asphalt was $1.01, which would raise the total estimate a slight amount.

The bid of Frown and Connors of Janesville was on the asphalt jobs, no estimates being made for the Milton avenue work. For excavation, 50c; asphalt, $1.01; 50c for re-surfacing, a total of $7.338.04. No brand of asphalt was named in the bid.

The bid of $6.7348.04. No brand of asphalt was named in the bid.

The bid of N. R. Hayes & Sons of Janesville for the brick work was: Excavation, 60c; pavement, $1.96; curb and gutter, 45c; protection curb, 25c, and covered gutter, 58c, the estimate being $13,491.95. The bid for the asphalt job was: Excavation, 50c; pavement, $1.05; re-surfacing, $70; a total of $7,635.70.

George Welch's, of Beloit, bid on the Milton avenue specifications, with 40c for excavation; pavement, $1.23; 50c for curb and gutter; protection curb, 25c, and covered gutter; 80c. The total bid was $12,542.39. No bid was put in for the asphalt work.

Butler Bid Low.

The last bid was made by the Butler Constructigon company of Waukesha and their asphalt bid was slightly higher than that of the Gund Graham company. For the brick fob: Excavation, 97c for pavement, $1.94; curb and gutter, 50c; protection curb, 20c, and 75c for covered gutter. The total estimate for the brick work was $13,410.22. The asphalt bid was $25 for excavation, 97c for pavement with Aztec asphalt and $1.03 for Scarco asphalt. and $1.03 for re-surfacing. The total bid was $6,841.78.

The difference in the bids, considering the brands of bricks of asphalt to be used, is because of the difference in prices set by the material men. The city has specifications which the contractors have to comply with in the materia spite the fact it is raining hard. His total for the two days, being $1-84, is 165.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee, Wis. July 28.—Blue Mound Country club, 1 p. m.—Janesville will have at least one player in the state golf championship flight according to present figures. Al Schaller qualified today, his card being only slightly higher than yesterday's, despite the fact it is raining hard. His total for the two days, being $1-84, is 165.

F. S. Baines was the only other Janesville player to finish at one out of the field of sixty-four starters. The rain made all the starts late and the playing exceedingly ragged. The pairings for the championship flights will not be made until the last pieyer is in but it is expected it will start this afternoon.

Three Janesville players qualified in the first day's play in the state golf championship tournament and were paired for today's contest. Ai. Schaller led the Janesville golfers with a score of $1. being tied with four others for ninth out of the sixty-four who survived. NECESSARY DIVORCE.

Someone wants to know if I believe in divorce.
That's a very big, many angled question and one of the subjects on, which I am waiting for my opinions to crystallize.
But I'll take this opportunity to tell you that there is a certain kind of divorce which I consider not only permissable but desirable.
Indeed I think the need of it should be taught in the public schools. I think mothers should instill its advisability into their children's minds and husbands and wives keep each other reminded of the need for it.
The kind of divorce to which I refer is the dissolution of the tie between married words. married words.

Words Which Custom Has Joined Together.

Words Which Custom Has Joined Together.

Of course you know what I mean by married words—the kind of words that seem to be indissolubly associated in our language, words which custom has joined together and common sense fails to put asunder.

We find them in newspaper paragraphs, we find them in almost every story, we find our friends using them, and still nearer home, we find ourselves perpetrating them.

"Amply repaid," is one such couple.

"Added inducement," is another.

"Last analysis," is a most familiar example.

"Willing hands," is a favorite among newspaper writers. I know of one newspaper in this country whose proprietor believes so emphatically in word divorce that he supplies each new worker with a list of tabooed couples. "Willing hands" is one.

A langerous Subject for Me.

I know it is a dangerous subject for me to write about for the day after it is published I shall get a grist of letters pointing out examples of married words which appear in my own column. And yet I brays this experience, because I think it will be an excellent thing for me.

The tie that holds together worn-out quoted phrases is another tie that would be more honored in the dissolution. I refer to such phrases as "sweet better known by those chance mocking words than by any of his serious thoughts.

Slang is Machine-made Language.

Anything in language which is fixed and which makes it possible for us to use merely our mouths instead of our minds in expressing ourselves is bad. That is one of the objections to slang, that it substitutes ready-made phrases for individual mind-made thoughts and expressions.

Barrie says that whenove he wants to use a quotation, he looks it up in the quotation book and if he finds it he doesn't use it.

If we were, we wouldn't have so many married words, so many phrases "endowed with a regrettable vitality" and so much worn out slang.

"That good natured, fat old marshai," scoffed Nell; "who would be afraid of him?"

"Well, we have been free from harm so far," asserted Dick easily.

"It was not because of fear of the strong arm of the law, you may be sure. I hope he will sleep a little less soundly, at night until the thief is caught." Nell passed her plate for more meat.

"Be sure that you put the baby under lock and key. I would be sorry news to be told your jewel had been stolen," chuckled the grandmother.

"That's so; if we keep him safe we have little else to worry about," said Dick with an answering smile. "If a coat of one suit and trousers of another were taken from my wardrobe, I would be forced to appear in variegated garments or else in my pristine simplicity," laughed Dick.

"Let us hope the thief is satisfied with the present state of his wardrobe," said Nell.

BATHROOM LINENS.

BATHROOM LINENS.

In the days of the old tin tub almost anything in the way of a towel was good enough, so long as it was free from holes. The advent of sanitary plumbing, the white enamet tub and the nickel and glass fixtures have made the up-to-date bathroom a different proposition. For instance, utility is no longer the sole standard by which the bathroom lineus are judged. They must also harmonize, with the enamel and glass fittings, as a result housewives now buy their towels in sets in white, with an initial or monogram in color. Many at towel sets are bought in plain or fancy material without a monogram, which is worked by the housewife herself.

"Come; and we'll have four glorious weeks painting New York pale rose and baby blue," wrote the Almost Old Business Woman to her Young Lady Niece.

She planned every detail of a joyful programme which would waken the girl from a small town to the glory of new horizons. Never having quite lost the thrill of a soul stepping from a village to a metropolis, she looked forward to warming over her own emotions at the fire of her niece's enthusiasm.

The ride to the station seemed freshened as the Almost Old Business Woman looked at Fifth Avenue from the guests probable point of view. She remembered how her own eyes, accustomed to the easy spread of homesteads that rambled all over wide lawns, had seemed literally to stretch to take in the new perspectives bounded by perpendicular skyscrapers, whose soaring straight lines, seemed to send her village-grown soul sweeping breathlessly away from earth. The brilliant blue and white of a clear-day sky or the violet hazes (pricked with a million lights like diamond points) draped about the Battery Park at dusk or the purple shadows of the canyon trails between moon-struck skyscrapers had caught her sense of romance with a charm-which never entirely failed long after novelty was gone.

"And if there are any dangerously worn-thin places in my filusions I can borrow some scraps of Beatrice to patch the weak spots," she promised herself a she swung into Grand Central Station.

Huge splashes of sunlight fell in oblongs over the walting crowds about the train gateways. The Almost Old Girl stood listening to the passing feet beat time on the stones to a thousand tunes for the thousand life stories that surged through the vast room. She was glad one architect had opportunity to throw imagination loose in such building spaces. Then she turned her eyes to the gate to catch the first glimpse of a pretty girl walking eagerly toward pleasant adventures.

When the Almost Old Girl had covered the redness of her eye-lids.

When the Almost Old Girl had covered the redness of her eye-lids with powder she telephoned two "young club" men who were "tickled to death" to escort her pretty niece to a new summer musical show.

"We will not drive on Riverside to-night," she sighed, going toward the guest's room.

WOMEN IN SWITZERLAND TRAINED AS FIREMEN TO REPLACE THE MEN

Zurich, Switzerland, July 28.—Owing to the shortage of men in the Tyrol, the military authorities of Innsbruck have appealed to all the Tyrolese communes to enroll and train women and girls for fire department service. Considerable numbers of women are already being trained, especially in the use of the hose and in first aid.

In Germany, the use of women workers in the factories has been highly systematized, offrty per cent. of the high-explosive makers and shell packers are women; fifty per cent of the makers of tents, haversacks and similar equipment belong to the same sex, and in the manufacture of tinned meats and preserves 75 per cent of those employed are females. TENACITY OF BRITISH IN STICKING TO TRENCH CAUSES HEAVY LOSSES

IN STICKING TO THENCH
CAUSES HEAVY LOSSES

[DY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, July 28.—The British stick to their trenches to the last man, hence their heavy casualties. The French, the Germans and Belgians have no sentiment about yielding ground, if to their military advantage to do so, especially when they can draw the enemy on to marked ranges. But the tradition of sticking it out to the last, born of the days when man was pitted against man instead of man against machine, is so strong in the British army that one of the most important lessons of the war has yet to be learned by it.

These are the observations of a Canadian surgeon who has worked on the three allied fronts in Flanders and made a close study of the different fighting methods.

According to his account, the French and German, unlike the British, iay no stress on holding their front line of trenches; In case of an attack they withdraw to the rear lines. Being a careful measured range, the enemy in taking the first line gets into a wasp's nest. The French, with marvelous accuracy, pour both shrapnel and high explosives shells from their famous sey-

Crisco pie crust is rich, wholesome and delicious, for Crisco is all vegetable and all Crisco's digestibility is especially important in relation to pie crust, in which so much shortening is used; it is a scientific fact that shortening is unchanged in the baking process. It is still in a raw state, merely having been distributed throughout the dough or crust.

PLAIN PASTRY

(Clip this Recipe)

11/2 cupfuls flour

5 cupful Crisco 1 teaspoonful salt 4 tablespoonfuls cold water

Sift the flour and salt and cut the Crisco into the flour with two knives until it is finely divided. Then add the water sparingly, mixing it with a knife through the dry materials. Form into a dough, roll out about 1/4 inch thick, on a floured board. Use a light motion in handling the rolling-pin, and roll from the center outward. The Crisco should be of a consistency such that when scooped out with a spoon it rounds up egg-shaped.

enty-five field guns. When they assume the offensive and capture a German trench, they protect their men with a curtain of fire as long as possible; but if its occupation seems likely to prove too expensive, they withdraw, measuring the ground as best they can in their retreat in order to correct the aim of their batteries. Somewhat the same tactics are followed by the Germans, who, however, use machine guns instead of field cannon. But the British hold on to their front trench when attacked, and onto the captured trench when attacking, with a courage unexcelled in history. But they act with more courage than intelligence, since they play into the hauds of the Germans by their very stubborness.

FAMED SAINT BERNARD PASS IS ARMED CAMP

Zurich. Switzerland, July 28.—The famous Saint Bernard Pass, between Italy and Switzerland, which was traversed by armies in Roman and mediaeval times, and by Napoleon's army in 1800, is again an armed camp. The Hospice, or monastery, at the summit of the pass, whence the monks send out their famous dogs to the succor of travelers in winter, is occupied by an outpost of Swiss soldiers who took up their abode there in mid-winter, arriving on skis.

The Aboott and his monks, about a dozen in number, had an easy winter. Very few wayfarers traversed the pass this year, and no disasters occurred. The doss—the famous St. Bernard breed has been replaced by a Newfoundland stock—had scarcely anything to do.

Rev. Smith Boyd, blazing down at scane, suddenly felt something crushing under his hand. It was the light runner board of the music rack. and three hairs, which had lain in placid place at the crown of his head, suddenly popped erect. Ten thousand years before, had these three been so grouped, Allison would have felt a stone ax on the back of his neck, but as it was he passed out unmolested. nodding carelessly to the young rector, and bestowing on Gail a parting look which was the perfection of easy

"Gail!" he said, in a voice which. chimed of all the love songs ever written, which vibrated with all the love passion ever breathed, which pleaded with the love appeal of all the dominant forces since creation. Gail had resumed her seat on the end of the piano bench, and now he reached down and took her hand, and held it, unresisting. She was weak and limp. and she averted her eyes from the burning gaze which beamed down on her. Her breath was fluttering, and the hand which lay in her lap was cold and trembling. "Gail, I love you!" He bent his head and kissed her hand. The touch was fire, and she felt her blood leap to it, "Gail, dear," and his voice was like the suppressed crescendo of a tremendous organ flute; "I come to you with the love of a man. I come to you with the love of one inspired to do great deeds, not just to lay them at your feet, but because you are in the world!" He bent lower, and tried to gaze into the brown eyes under those fluttering lashes. He held her hand more tightly to him, clasped it to his breast, oppressed her with the tremendous desire of his whole being to draw her to him, and, hold her close, as one and a part of him for all time to come, mingling and merging them into one ecstatic harmony Ob Gott Gatt!

There was a cry in that repetition of her name, almost an anguish. She stole an upward glance at him, her face pale, her beautiful lips half parted, and in her depthless brown eyes, alive now with a new light which had been born within her, there was no forbiddance, though she dropped them hastily, and bent her head still lower. She had made herself an eternal part of him just then, had he but seized upon that unspoken assent, and taken her in his arms, and breathed to her of the love of man for woman, the love that never dies nor wavers nor falters. so long as the human race shall en-

He bent still closer to her, so that he all but enfolded her. His warm breath was upon her cheek. The sympathy which was between them bridged the narrow chasm of air, and enveloped them in an ethereal flame which coursed them from head to foot, and had already nigh welded them into one.

"I need you, Gail!" he told her. "I need you to be my wife, my sweetheart, my companion. I need you to so with me through life, to walk hand in hand with me about the greatest ework in the world, the recemption of the fallen and helpless, into whose lives we may shed some of the beauty which blossoms in our own." There was a low cry from Gail, a ery which was half a sob, which came with a sharp intake of the breath, and carried with it pain and sorrow and protest. She had been so happy, in what she fancied to be the near fulallment of the promptings which had grown so strong within her. No surge of emotion like this had ever swept ever her; no such wave of yearning had ever carried her impetuously up and out of herself as this had done. It had been the ecstatic answer to all ber dreams, the ripe and rich and perfect completion of every longing within her; yet, in the very midst of it had come a word which broke the magic thrall; a thought which had; torn the fairy web like a rude storm from out the icy north; a devouring genie which, dark and frightening, adranced to destroy all the happiness work in the world! And what was Mrs. Helen Davies was having her barb away.

"I can't!" she breathed, but she did not withdraw her hand from his clasp. She could not! It was as if those two palms had welded together, and had tion; to make pomp and ceremony a become parts of one and the same organism.

There was an instant of silence, in which she slowly gathered her swirling senses, and in which he sat, dropped, her long brown lashes curved shocked, stunned, disbelieving his own ears. Why, he had known, as positively, and more positively, than if she had told him, that there was a perfect response in her to the great desire which throbbed within him. It had come to him from her like the wavering of soft music, music which had blended with his own pulsing diapason in a melody so subtle that it drowned the senses to languorous swooning: it had come to him with the delicate far-off pervasiveness of the birth of a new star in the heavens; it had come to him as a fragrance, as a radiance, as the beautiful tints of spring blossoms, as something infinitely stronger. and deeper, and sweeter, than the sleep of death. That tremendous and perfect fitness and accord with him he felt in her band even now. "I can't, Tod," she said again, and

"There could never be a unity of purpose in us," and now, for the first time, she gently withcrew her hand. "I could never be in sympathy with your work, nor you with my views. Have you noticed that we have never held a serious dispute over any topic but one?"

He drew a chair before her, and took her hand again, but this time he patted it between his own as if it were

CHAPTER XVII.

The Public is Aroused. Clad in her filmy cream lace gown, Gail walked slowly into her boudoir, and closed the door, and sank upon her divan. She did not stop tonight to let down her hair and change to her dainty negliges, nor to punctiliously seemed to have descended up it, like straighten the room, nor to turn on the beautiful green light; instead, with all the electric bulbs blazing, she sat prison stripes; and the fact which she with her chin in her hand, and, with her body perfectly in repose, tried to study the whirl of her mind. She was shaken, she knew that, shaken and stirred as she had never been before. Something in the depths Grace Sargent, bustling about to see of her had leaped up into life, and that Gail was supplied with more cried out in agony, and would not stop crying until it was satisfied.

"I need you to walk hand in hand with me about the greatest work in went straight up to her sister Helen, the world!" That was it; the greatest the creases of worry deep in her brow.

that work? To live and teach ritual in place of religion; to turn worship into a social observance; to use helpless belief as a ladder of ambition: to reduce faith to words, and hope to a recitation, and charity to an obligapose a secretary between the human heart and God!

For just an instant Gail's eyelids upon her cheeks, while beneath them her eyes glinted, and a smile touched the corners of her lips; then she was serious again. No, she had decided wisely.

There was a knock on the door, and Gail smiled again as she said: "Come in."

Mrs. Helen Davies entered, tall and stately in her boudoir frills and ruffles. She sat down in front of Gail and prepared to enact the role of conscientious mother. "Doctor Boyd proposed to you tonight," she charged, with affectionate authority. "Yes, Aunt Helen," and Gail began to pull pins out of her hair. A worried expression crossed the brow of Aunt Helen.

"Did you accept him?" and she fairly quivered with anxiety. "No, Aunt Helen." Quite calmly, piling more hairpins and still more into the little tray by her side, and shaking down her rippling waves of Aunt Helen sighed a deep sigh of relief, and smiled her approval.

"Gail, dear, you have shown a degree of carefulness which I am delighted to find in you. If you handle all your affairs so sensibly, you have a brilliant future before you."

"I must be an awful worry to you, Aunt Helen," observed Gail, and walking over, she slipped her arm around Mrs. Davies' neck and kissed her and looked around for her chocolate box.

Gail's maid came in, and Mrs. Davies bade her sister's niece good-night most cordially, and retired with a great load off her mind; and half an hour later the lights in Gail's pretty little suite went out.

If she lay long hours looking out at the pale stars; if, in the midst of her calm logic, she suddenly buried her face in her pillows and sobbed silently; if, toward morning, she awoke with a little cry to find her face and her hands hot, all these things were but normal and natural. It is enough to know that she came to her breakfact bright-eyed and rosy-cheeked and smiling with the pleasant greetings of the day, and picked up the papers casually, and lit upon the newest sen-sation of the free and entirely uncurbed metropolitan press!

The free and entirely uncurbed metropolitan press had found Vedder and had made it the sudden focus of the public eye. Those few who were privileged to know intimately the workings of that adroit master of the public welfare, Tim Corman, could have recognized clearly which obscure Vedder court had sudpress had taken up, with great enthu- on." slasm, the work of poking the finger of scorn at Vedder court. It had published photographs of the disreputable old sots of buildings, and, where they did not seem to drip enough, the artists had retouched them. It had sent budding young Poes and Dickenses down there to write up the place. It had sent the sob sisters there in shoals to interview the downtrodden, and, above all things, it had put prominently before the public eye the immense profit which Market Square church wrung from this organized misery!

Gail turned sick at fleart as she read. Uncle Jim permitted four morning papers to come to the house, and the dripping details, with many variations, were in all of them. She glanced over toward the rectory and the dignified old church standing beyond it, with mingled indignation and humiliation. A sort of ignominy a man whose features seem coarsened from the instant he is doomed to wear particularly resented was that a portion of the disgrace of Market Square church seemed to have descended upon her. She could not make out why this should be; but it was. Aunt kinds of delicacies than she could pos sibly sample, saw that unmistakable look of distress on Gail's face, and coffee in bed, and she continued that absorbing ceremony while she considered her sister's news.

"I did not think that Gail was so deeply affected by the occurrences of last night," she mused; "but of course she could not sleep, and she's full of sympathy, this morning, and afraid that maybe she made a mistake, and feels perfectly wretched."

Grace Sargent sat right down. "Did the rector propose?" she breathlessly inquired.

Mrs. Davies poured herself some more hot coffee, and nodded.

"She refused him." "Oh!" and acute distress settled or Grace Sargent's brow, with such a firm clutch that it threatened to homestead the location. Mrs. Sar gent shared the belief of Rev. Smith Boyd's mother, that Smith Boyd was the finest young man in the world; and Gail's aunt was speechless with dis may and disappointment.

"I have ceased to worry about Gail's future," went on Mrs. Davies compla-cently. "It is her present condition which I am most concerned. She is so conscientious and self-analytical that she may distress herseli over this affair, and I must get in Arly and Lucile, and plan a series of gay eties which will keep her mind occu-pled from morning until night."

In consequence of this kindly decision, Gail was plunged into gayety until she loathed the scrape of a violin! The mere fact that she had no time to think did not remove the fact that she had a great deal to think about, and the gayety only added dismally to her troubled burden.

when one does not specify the length required. "Six-fourths of what?" is likely to be the question put by the layman.

When a man buys a new pair of shoestrings in them are just long enough. When he buys the next pair of strings that come with the shoes are four-fourths long, the next pair will be six-fourths unless the purchaser asks for and can get four-fourths.

These lengths have to do with men's high shoes. There is not the same trouble in the case of low shoes.

shoestring, not only because it holds its color, but because being of a less hard fiber it stays tied better than the other. A few of the millions of shoestring wearers know how to tie a bowknot that won't come untied. The method can be explained without a diagram.

Many people prefer the less durable

Instead of tucking the bow once over before drawing the knot tight, tuck it twice over. A fiddle string used for a shoestring would not come untied if the knot were made in that way. This knot can be untied in the same way as the other, by pulling at the ends.—Philadelphia Record.

TRAPPED A SEAGULL.

Queer Contest of Strength Between Bird and a Bivalve.

At first thought it is bard to imagine how a clam could endanger the life of bird. That such a strange circumstance is not impossible is shown by the following incident:

A settler on one of the small islands near Vancouver was returning to his home by way of a beach of hard sand when he beheld an unusually large flock of seagulfs gathered in a compact mass and beating with beaks and wings upon the sand. Evidently, they attacking some enemy. head dozens of gulls wheeled and screamed in evident excitement.

The settler was almost upon the fighting birds before they burst apart and flew, chattering, toward the clouds. One, however, lay flapping upon the ground, and the man saw that a monster clam held the gull's beak in a vise like grip. It was too heavy for the hird to fly away with, and for all the gull's frantic struggles it could not oosen the clam's tenacious grip. With his hunting knife the man pried open the shells and freed the captive. The gull was exhausted from its desperate efforts and at first could only stagger like a drunken sailor toward the water. Finally, however, it flew away and soon returned in the van of a cloud of gulls come to inspect the en emy that had trapped one of their tribe.-St. Andrews Beacon.

Lip Reading Detectives.

In a Vienna school for the deaf and dumb, where lip reading is taught, a course has been established for the special purpose of teaching the art to detectives. The possibilities of lip reading, says the author of the account in, authorities to think the instruction of detectives worth while. When a detective becomes proficient, he is able to learn something of the conversation between people who are visible; but out of earshot. The article says that at from 50 to 100 feet it is possible for an expert to get the general run of a conversation. Some reading has been done with glasses at a distance of 125 feet. W.E.Clinton & Co. Instruction and practice in the art must be very thorough if the detective is to use it to real advantage in his to use it to real advantage in his work.

GERMANS ENCOUNTER

Teutons Advance Across Country Which is Disadvantageous to Military Operations.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—For weeks German regiments have been working their way from Cracow and Plotrkow, north and northwest, toward Warsaw through the government of Radom. Tomasow, Konskie, Przedborz, Staszow, Sandomierz, Ostrowiec, Ilza, and the River Pilica have followed one another in the prominence of war reports, as the invaders have converged upon the central government of Warsaw, the kernel of Russian Poland. The nature of the country through which the German advance from the southwest has been pressed is described in a primer of war geography just issued by the National Geographic society.

"Radom is a triangular province with its base toward Galicia and its apex pointed directly at Warsaw. The government contains 4,763 square miles, much of which is as rich as any land in Europe. More than 50 per cent of the total area of this government was under cuttivation in 1906.

"The government is bounded on the west and porth by the Biver working their way from Cracow and any land in Europe. More tuan by per cent of the total area of this government was under cultivation in 1906.

"The government is bounded on the west and north by the River Pilica, and upon the north, east and south by the River Vistula. In common with all Russian Poland, it has suffered a dampening of its industrial and commercial development due to a lack of facilities for communication. The Vistula River forms one of its main avenues of trade, while one railway crosses through the government from Ivangorod to Kielce, and a branch line projects south into the central part from Tomasow, Radom is bounded by the governments of Piotrkow on the west, Warsaw and Siedlee on the north. Lublin on the east, and Austrian Galicia and the Polish government of Kielce on the south.

"The military difficulty of the country increases toward the south and toward the west; for irregular hills build its southern area and marshes and swamps, border the sides of the unhealthy Pilica. The southern lands of the government are taken up with the heavily forested Sandomir Heights, a broad series of ranges of deeply cleft hills, their ridges varying from $90 to 1,000 feet in height, and here and there pierced by valleys scoured and worn in great outs, that are bottomed by the richest of agricultural land and drained by tributaries of the Vistula.

"Toward the central region, the country becomes a long, rolling swell, broken ever and again by stray hill formations, and in places densely forested. The cleared land here is also extremely fertile. It is principally under wheat, rye, barley, oats, buckwheat, hemp, flax and potatoes. A vast amount of fuel alcohol is distilled from the potatoes raised in the government. Here, too, are great cattle, swine and goose farms, Large quantities of grain and meats have always been prominent exports from Radom.

"The northern districts of Radom government again take on a charac-

RADOM IS OCCUPIED

BY GERMAN FORCES

Washington, D. C. July 28.—In their drive through southern Russian Poland, the Germans recently swept over the city of Radom, capital of the government of Radom, and the last important city in the south between their legions and the metropolis, Warsaw. A description of this cover the city of Radom, capital of the government city in the south between their legions and the metropolis, Warsaw.
